Comedy for Safety

How do you get people to think about safety without being aware of it? Louis Self believes that is where his safety comedy show comes in.

He can speak from experience, having nearly lost three fingers recently in a freak accident. He ended up in a hospital in the Dominican Republic reading books on his cell phone and figuring out what was funny about the whole thing.

Lou not only approaches things from the view of a stand-up comedian with over 200 appearances under his belt, but also keeps safety in perspective, being a certified fight instructor, an active kiteboarder and a former Industrial Arts teacher still sporting all his digits.

Contact Lou to discuss a comedy show to address your safety needs. Let's have fun! Let's laugh!
